Activity Report
Academic Year	2019 -20
Name of the Activity	Introduction to Intellectual Property Rights
Date of the Activity	08/02/2019
Participate Count	98
Place	Savitribai Phule Sabhagruh
Organized By	IQAC cell
Objective	- To introduce the fundamental ideas of research methodology - This course introduces the fundamental ideas of research methodology while addressing the problems involved in choosing a research problem. - explain about the techniques and materials to use when finishing a research project.
Brief Report	- Academic Staff College hosted an all-day awareness event on "Intellectual Property Rights (IPR)" on 13.10.2019 - The significance of IPR in the current context was carefully explained by the resource person. - He discussed the need of understanding IPR in light of the shift in the definition of assets from material to non-material. The preservation of intellectual property rights (IPRs) generally focuses on both physical and immaterial assets. - The contributors and inventors are given tangible rewards and acknowledgement for their contributions. As a result, it makes people more motivated to share knowledge about science and technology, which in turn encourages research and development to raise standards of living - The following topics were discussed in this session: 1. The establishment of intellectual property rights. 2. IP Meaning within the law - The majority of the faculty members were unfamiliar with the process of filing patents for intellectual property rights, therefore the talk was packed with knowledge. An engaging question-and-answer period followed the talk, and the professors were happy. - The academic staff college suggests organizing an increased number of IPR-related programmes, particularly those on patents, trademark registrations, and copyright law, as knowledge in these areas is essential for both personal and professional success.
Outcome	Students were aware on intellectual property rights, while involved in the research project they need to follow all the guideline regarding IPR.

Academic Year	2021-22
Name of the Activity	Data Collection Tool
Date of the Activity	17.12.2021
Participate Count	99
Place	Mahatma Jyotiba Fule College of Social Work Yavatmal
Organized By	Mahatma Jyotiba Fule College of Social Work Yavatmal & IQAC
Objective	The purpose of the Social Work Research Tools Program was to provide social work students with the knowledge and skills they need to use research tools to conduct social work research. The program also aimed to help students to critically evaluate research findings and to use research to inform their practice.
Brief Report	Topics Covered: The topics covered in the Social Work Research Tools Program included: - The different types of research tools - The strengths and weaknesses of different research tools - How to select the right research tool for a particular research question - How to collect and analyze data using research tools - How to report the findings of research using research tools Speakers: The speakers at the Social Work Research Tools Program were experienced social work researchers and professionals from the field of social work research. They shared their knowledge and expertise with the participants. Key Takeaways: The key takeaways from the Social Work Research Tools Program were: - Research tools are essential for conducting social work research. - There are many different types of research tools, each with its own strengths and weaknesses. - The choice of research tool should be based on the research question being asked. - It is important to collect and analyze data carefully using research tools. - The findings of research should be reported accurately and ethically. Evaluation: The Social Work Research Tools Program was evaluated through a post-event survey of the participants. The survey results showed that the participants were highly satisfied with the program and that they had learned a lot about research tools. Overall, the Social Work Research Tools Program was a successful program that achieved its objectives of providing social work students with the knowledge and skills they need to use research tools to conduct social work research. The program was well-received by the participants and the speakers, and it is likely to have a positive impact on the participants' future research endeavors. Here are some of the most common research tools used in social work research: Surveys: Surveys are a popular research tool for collecting data from a large number of people. They can be used to collect information about people's attitudes, beliefs, behaviors, and experiences.

Interviews: Interviews are a more in-depth way to collect data from people. They can be used to gather information about people's thoughts, feelings, and experiences.

Focus groups: Focus groups are a way to gather data from a small group of people. They can be used to get people's reactions to a particular topic or issue.

Observations: Observations are a way to collect data by watching people's behavior. They can be used to study people's interactions with each other or with their environment.

Documents: Documents can be a source of data for social work research. They can include things like case files, policy reports, and newspaper articles.

Students were well adverse with social work research tools and also able to practice these tools during the academic curriculum.

Gratitude Letter

Dr. Keshav Walke, We are very thankful to you on behalf of Mahatma Jyotiba Fule College of Social Work, Yavatmal for providing valuable information on the Subject of "Data Analysis Using SPSS Software" held on 20 & 21/08/2022.

Your presentation was not only informative but also engaging, and we appreciate the way you addressed the student's questions and concerns with patience and clarity. Your ability to simplify complex concepts and explain them in a way that was easy to understand was truly impressive. These Inputs were very useful and helpful for our students to develop their understanding the Data Analysis Using SPSS Software

Once again thank you very much for your valuable time...!
